

Intelligent Management Tools for your FT Group Subscription

ft.com/group

Access Manager provides an easy way for your colleagues to access your FT group subscription. It saves you time by removing admin tasks and keeps your subscription secure, while promoting awareness on an ongoing basis.

Easy, administration-free access

Access Manager recognises your IP address and shows a message to new users when they first visit FT.com. After a quick sign-up process, they'll receive unlimited access to FT.com on all their devices. By being able to set up their login details themselves, users get instant access to FT content without having to contact a licence administrator.

Customisable and secure

Your organisation's logo as well as customised text can be added to the messaging shown to end users. This message is restricted to just your organisation's IP ranges and only individuals with your approved email domains can sign up. Access to your subscription is kept secure whilst administrators can also track who has joined the subscription using our Enterprise Tools platform.

Adaptable to your needs

If you have a group subscription that is restricted to a specific number of end users, Access Manager can be adapted to direct login requests to the right team or individual. End users are made aware of your group subscription and know exactly who to ask about access. Licence administrators therefore retain control over the subscription and can gauge demand based on the number of requests received.

Frictionless login to FT.com

Access Manager compliments our Single Sign On (SSO) offering, which allows end users to access FT.com through their existing network login details. The Access Manager messaging on FT.com alerts end users to their group subscription. They can then sign in with SSO using their company network details rather than having to create a new password.

Simple set-up

Your FT Customer Success Manager can provide further support and offer guidance from initial setup through to 'go live'. For more information on methods of access to FT.com, please email customersuccess@ft.com.

With Access Manager, we can control how the service is implemented and I get a transparent view of how the service is being used.
